

The Italian Ministry of Finance and the OECD/CTPA Alessandro Di Battista Fellowship 2021-2022

In 2002, the Italian Government, in collaboration with the Centre for Tax Policy and Administration (CTPA) of the Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD), established the Alessandro Di Battista Fellowship. It is co-funded by the Italian Ministry of Finance in memory of the young Italian economist Alessandro Di Battista, who came from that Ministry to work on tax analysis at the OECD and prematurely passed away in 2001.

The main objective of the Di Battista Fellowship is to allow a young Italian economist to be on loan from their current employer to the OECD to conduct economic analysis of tax policy and acquire experience at the CTPA in Paris for a total period of 12 months. This position is financed by the Italian Ministry of Finance, allowing the retained candidate to receive a supplement of 2904,00 € per month to the regular salary provided by the candidate's home organisation, in recognition of the additional costs involved.

The Host Organisation

The OECD is a global economic forum working with 38 member countries and more than 100 emerging and developing economies to make better policies for better lives. Our mission is to promote policies that will improve the economic and social well-being of people around the world. The Organisation provides a unique forum in which governments work together to share experiences on what drives economic, social and environmental change, seeking solutions to common problems.

The OECD has earned a leading role in international tax issues. The Centre for Tax Policy and Administration (CTPA) is the focal point for the OECD's work on all taxation issues, both international and domestic, and it works to advance the Strategic Orientations of the Secretary General, ensuring impact of the OECD tax work in the international governance architecture, in co-ordination with the OECD Sherpa team. The CTPA collaborates with other parts of the Organisation on issues such as the digitalisation of the global economy, tax and climate change, tax and inclusive growth, and the impact of taxation on labour markets and several other multidisciplinary projects. The CTPA also provides analytical support to the OECD's Committee on Fiscal Affairs, which consists of senior tax policy and administration officials from OECD countries, Associate and Partner countries and other international and regional tax organisations. It also supports the work of the 139 members of the Inclusive Framework on BEPS. Through its work, the CTPA enhances the OECD's global role in standard-setting, building knowledge, communicating with the world and interacting with governments and stakeholders from around the world to inform and influence policy making in the tax area.

Main Responsibilities

The 2021-22 Di Battista Fellow will undertake economic analysis – both quantitative and qualitative in nature – under the current work programme of the Tax Policy and Statistics (TPS) Division, building on their particular skill set. The programme involves a broad range of issues related to personal and corporate tax policy reform, value added taxes, the use of tax expenditures and other tax preferences, environmental taxes, and the comparative taxation of different forms of investment income.

Candidates who could support the TPS Division's work in the area of business and international taxation are particularly encouraged to apply. The selected candidate could work on a range of topics in the area of corporate, business and international taxation. These could include ongoing analysis of the international tax reform proposals currently being considered by the Inclusive Framework on BEPS; the analysis of tax incentives for research and development within the OECD's effective tax rate modelling framework; and analysis of the taxation of personal and business income by legal form and its links to income recharacterisation and inequality.

Ideal Candidate profile

Academic Background

- An advanced university degree or studying for a PhD in economics, preferably with a focus on taxation or public finance.
- A genuine interest in developing their career by working on the economics and statistics of tax policy issues.

Professional Background

- A minimum of two, preferably three years' experience of relevant work experience in a tax administration, ministry of finance, financial institution, research institution, university or law, accounting firm.
- Experience in business taxation will be an advantage.

Key competencies

- Excellent conceptual thinking, research and analytical skills.
- Excellent ability to draft reports, in English or French, which are clear, concise and accessible.
- Ability to work in a multicultural team; excellent interpersonal, negotiation and diplomatic skills.
- Ability to work under pressure and adhere to strict deadlines.
- Proficiency in the use of standard software applications (Microsoft PowerPoint, Word, Excel).
- Ability to work with statistical software (e.g., STATA) will be an asset.

Languages

- Fluency in one of the two OECD official languages (English and French) and knowledge of the other, with a commitment to reach a good working level.
- Knowledge of other languages is an asset.

Applications and enquiries

Applications have to be submitted in one of the two OECD official languages (English or French), preferably in English only fully completed file will be examined :

- A detailed and comprehensive Curriculum Vitae;
- A cover letter with their motivation to join CTPA and areas of interest and expertise. This letter should also outline what contribution they could make to the TPS Division's work on the areas of work outlined above.
- A statement of confirmation that their employer is willing to continue paying their basic salary, including social security contributions (please note that a grant is not equivalent to a salary).

Expressions of interest should be sent to: DiBattista.fellowship@oecd.org

Subject: Application to the Di Battista Fellowship 2021-2022.

The closing date for applications is 30 SEPTEMBER 2021.

The retained candidate is expected to start at the OECD in late 2021.

For any further information please contact this email: DiBattista.fellowship@oecd.org